Power & Authority in Groups and Organizations: Going Global

A three-day temporary experiential learning conference designed to help us understand the complexity of dynamics motivating our behavior in groups and organizations so that we may transform ourselves and our organizations by becoming “responsible reflective citizens of the world.”

New York University Conference Center
The Woolworth Building
15 Barclay Street, New York

Power & Authority in Groups and Organizations: Going Global

April 4-6, 2008

This conference is an opportunity to:

- Learn more about the complexity of dynamics in groups and organizations in a global context.
- Explore how different cultural perspectives impact authority and authorization of roles in groups and organizations.
- Increase your ability to recognize and manage hidden agendas, stereotypes and unspoken assumptions about Western, Eastern and African groups.
- Become aware of the inherent dilemmas in collaboration and competition within and among groups.
- Enhance your skills in managing yourself and others in work roles when ethnocentricity and racial bias stand at the boundary between you.
