NYC Symposium 2010

The Symposium features presentations & small-group discussions. The presenting panel will explore issues from a social & psychodynamic view. After the presentations, symposium members will meet in small groups led by the panel presenters and invited facilitators.

Please Note: The Symposium is intended as an integrated experience; participants are expected to attend the full program. No prior A.K.Rice Institute experience is required.

About Us

The New York Center for the Study of Groups, Organizations, and Social Systems is a membership organization providing leadership, education, and innovation in group relations to the New York metropolitan area and beyond.

Our membership reflects the diversity of New York itself, and we are among the largest and most vibrant Centers affiliated with the A. K. Rice Institute for the Study of Social Systems, www.akriceinstitute.org. The New York Center sponsors a variety of group relations events throughout the year, including experiential conferences in the Tavistock/A. K. Rice tradition, talks and panel presentations. Please visit our website, www.nycgrouprelations.org for more information.

Pre-registration encouraged. Please use form on next page.
